Destination

Discovering the Lake of Vouliagmeni & Heraion

A few minutes drive from Loutraki lies the beautiful Lake of Vouliagmeni connected to the sea with a narrow canal and home to an island-like sandy beach ideal for relaxing vacation moments. Right beside the lake sits the archaeological site of Heraion, ancient goddess Hera’s sanctuary complete with temples, altars, cisterns and aqueducts dedicated to her. The entire area magically combines Mediterranean beauty with the charms of antiquity and lends itself to enchanting excursions that are not to be missed.

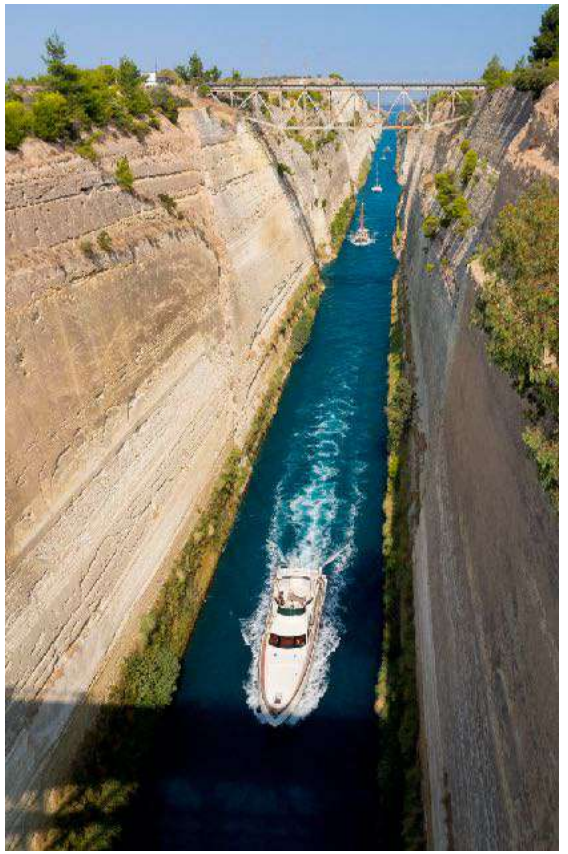

Destination

A visit to Ancient Corinth & the Corinth Canal

Only a short distance from Loutraki and less than 100km from Athens sits Corinth, a city of great significance in antiquity. Corinth was first inhabited in the Neolithic period but its golden age began in the 8th century B.C. when it became a leading power, even establishing colonies, such as Syracuse, in the western Mediterranean. A symbol of the city's former wealth and pioneering spirit is the Doric temple of Apollo, built in 540 B.C. Following 44 B.C., the city flourished and developed to the south of Apollo's temple with shops, shrines, fountains and baths being constructed.

A short drive from Loutraki leads to the Corinth Canal, offering impressive views of the Corinthian Gulf along the way. The canal connects the Gulf of Corinth in the Ionian Sea with the Saronic Gulf in the Aegean Sea through the narrow isthmus of Corinth and separates the Peloponnese from the Greek mainland. Over 6 kms in length and just over 21 metres wide, it is impassable by modern ships but stands out as an impressive tourist attraction and an impressive feat of engineering worth the visit.

Destination

A tour of Mycenae & Epidaurus

The archaeological site of Mycenae sits upon a hill-top on the lower slopes of Euboea Mountain. The site was inhabited since Neolithic times, it reached its peak, however during the Late Bronze age as a major centre of Greek civilisation and military stronghold. The city's acropolis was fortified with impressive "cyclopean" walls and enjoyed natural defence on its southeastern side thanks to a ravine. On the summit sat a palace and the "Cult Centre" with the painted frescoes and the iconic Lion Gate lay towards Argolic plain. Outside the walls more tombs, large tholoi and residences were discovered giving way to a destination ripe for exploration.

A visit to the small ancient city of Epidaurus is an absolute must. The historically significant area was home to the Asclepeion sanctuary, the Classical world's most celebrated healing sanctuary which later, following the introduction of Christianity, continued to stand out as a healing centre. Epidaurus is also home to an incredible ancient theatre dating back to the 4th c. B.C. with the capacity to host 2000 people and exceptional, world-renowned acoustics, which still operates as a venue for performances.

Destination

A delicious break in Nemea & A stop-over in Nafplio

Located in the northeastern most corner of the Peloponnese peninsula sits Nemea, arguably the country's most important red wine-producing region. The surrounding mountains and fertile valleys produce the native Agiorgitiko grape and have been grown roughly since the 5th century B.C. The area now boasts over forty local wineries while its is considered that the best wine originates from the grapes grown on higher altitudes. With a delicious legacy to be discovered, Nemea is a true discerning drinker's playground and a must for wine aficionados.

The scenic coastal city of Nafplio rests a little over an hour from Loutraki in the Peloponnese. Founded in antiquity the city became an important port during the Middle Ages, then came under the republic of Venice and the Ottoman Empire, following that. Nafplio eventually became the First Hellenic Republic's second capital. With an interesting legacy, picturesque streets and a major role during the Greek War of Independence, Nafplio features prominently as a unique tourist destination.

Thank you.
