Current customer reach visualised

Berlin

Hamburg

A time consuming, complex process
Legacy booking solutions for bus and coach services via email or phone mean customers reach a small percentage of the market available to them.

Customers research and contact individual suppliers by email or phone, one by one. Research via the internet also favours bigger, more established suppliers in big cities.

Volubus aim to change that.

How our underlying technology works

Berlin

Hamburg

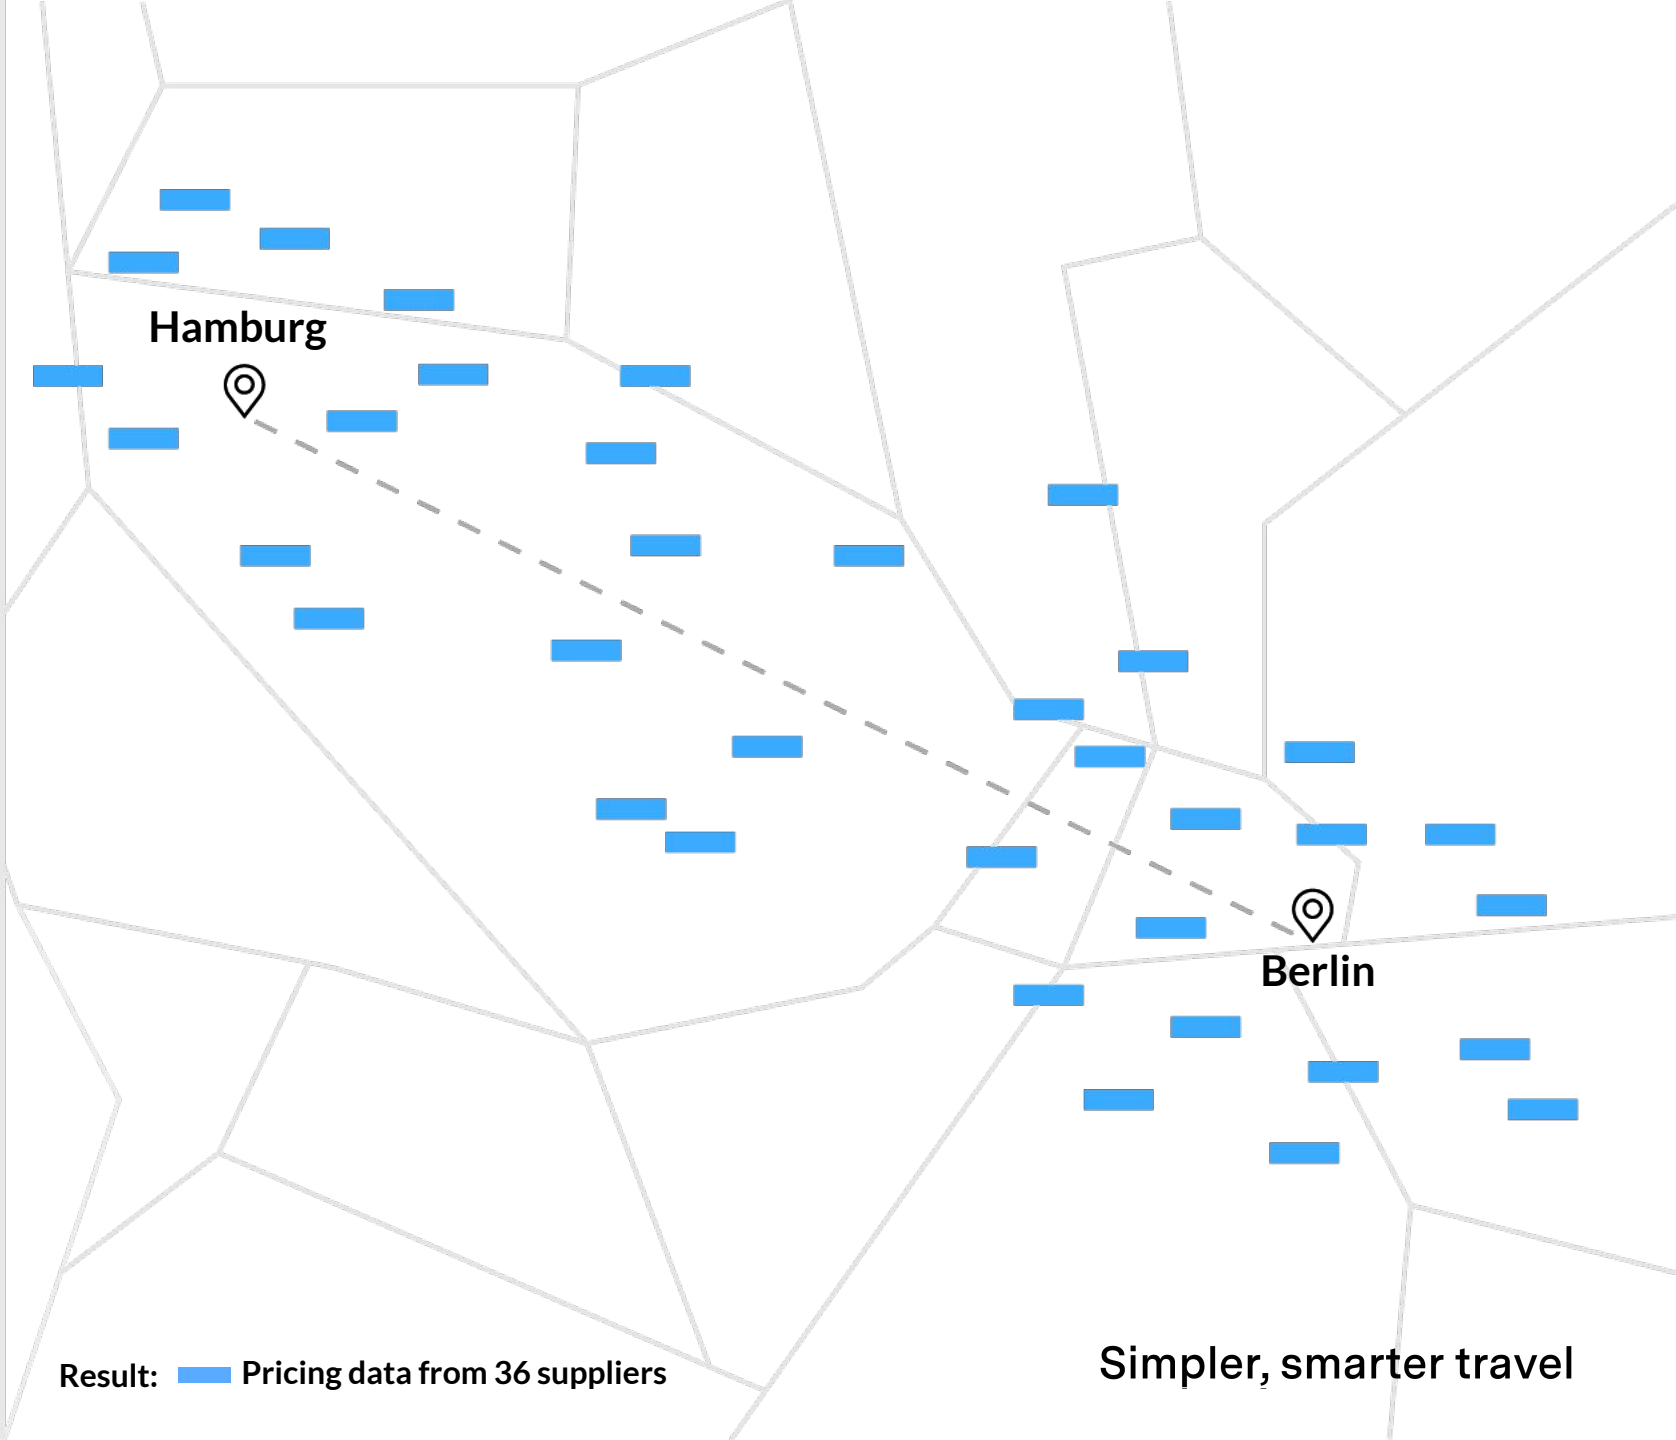

Data search and analysis
Data from up to 50 suppliers, is pinpointed, sorted and analysed, per request.

Geo-location at work in the background
The customers request ‘asks’ the Volubus system to search all suppliers selected by geo-location coordinates, due to their proximity to the requested route(s).

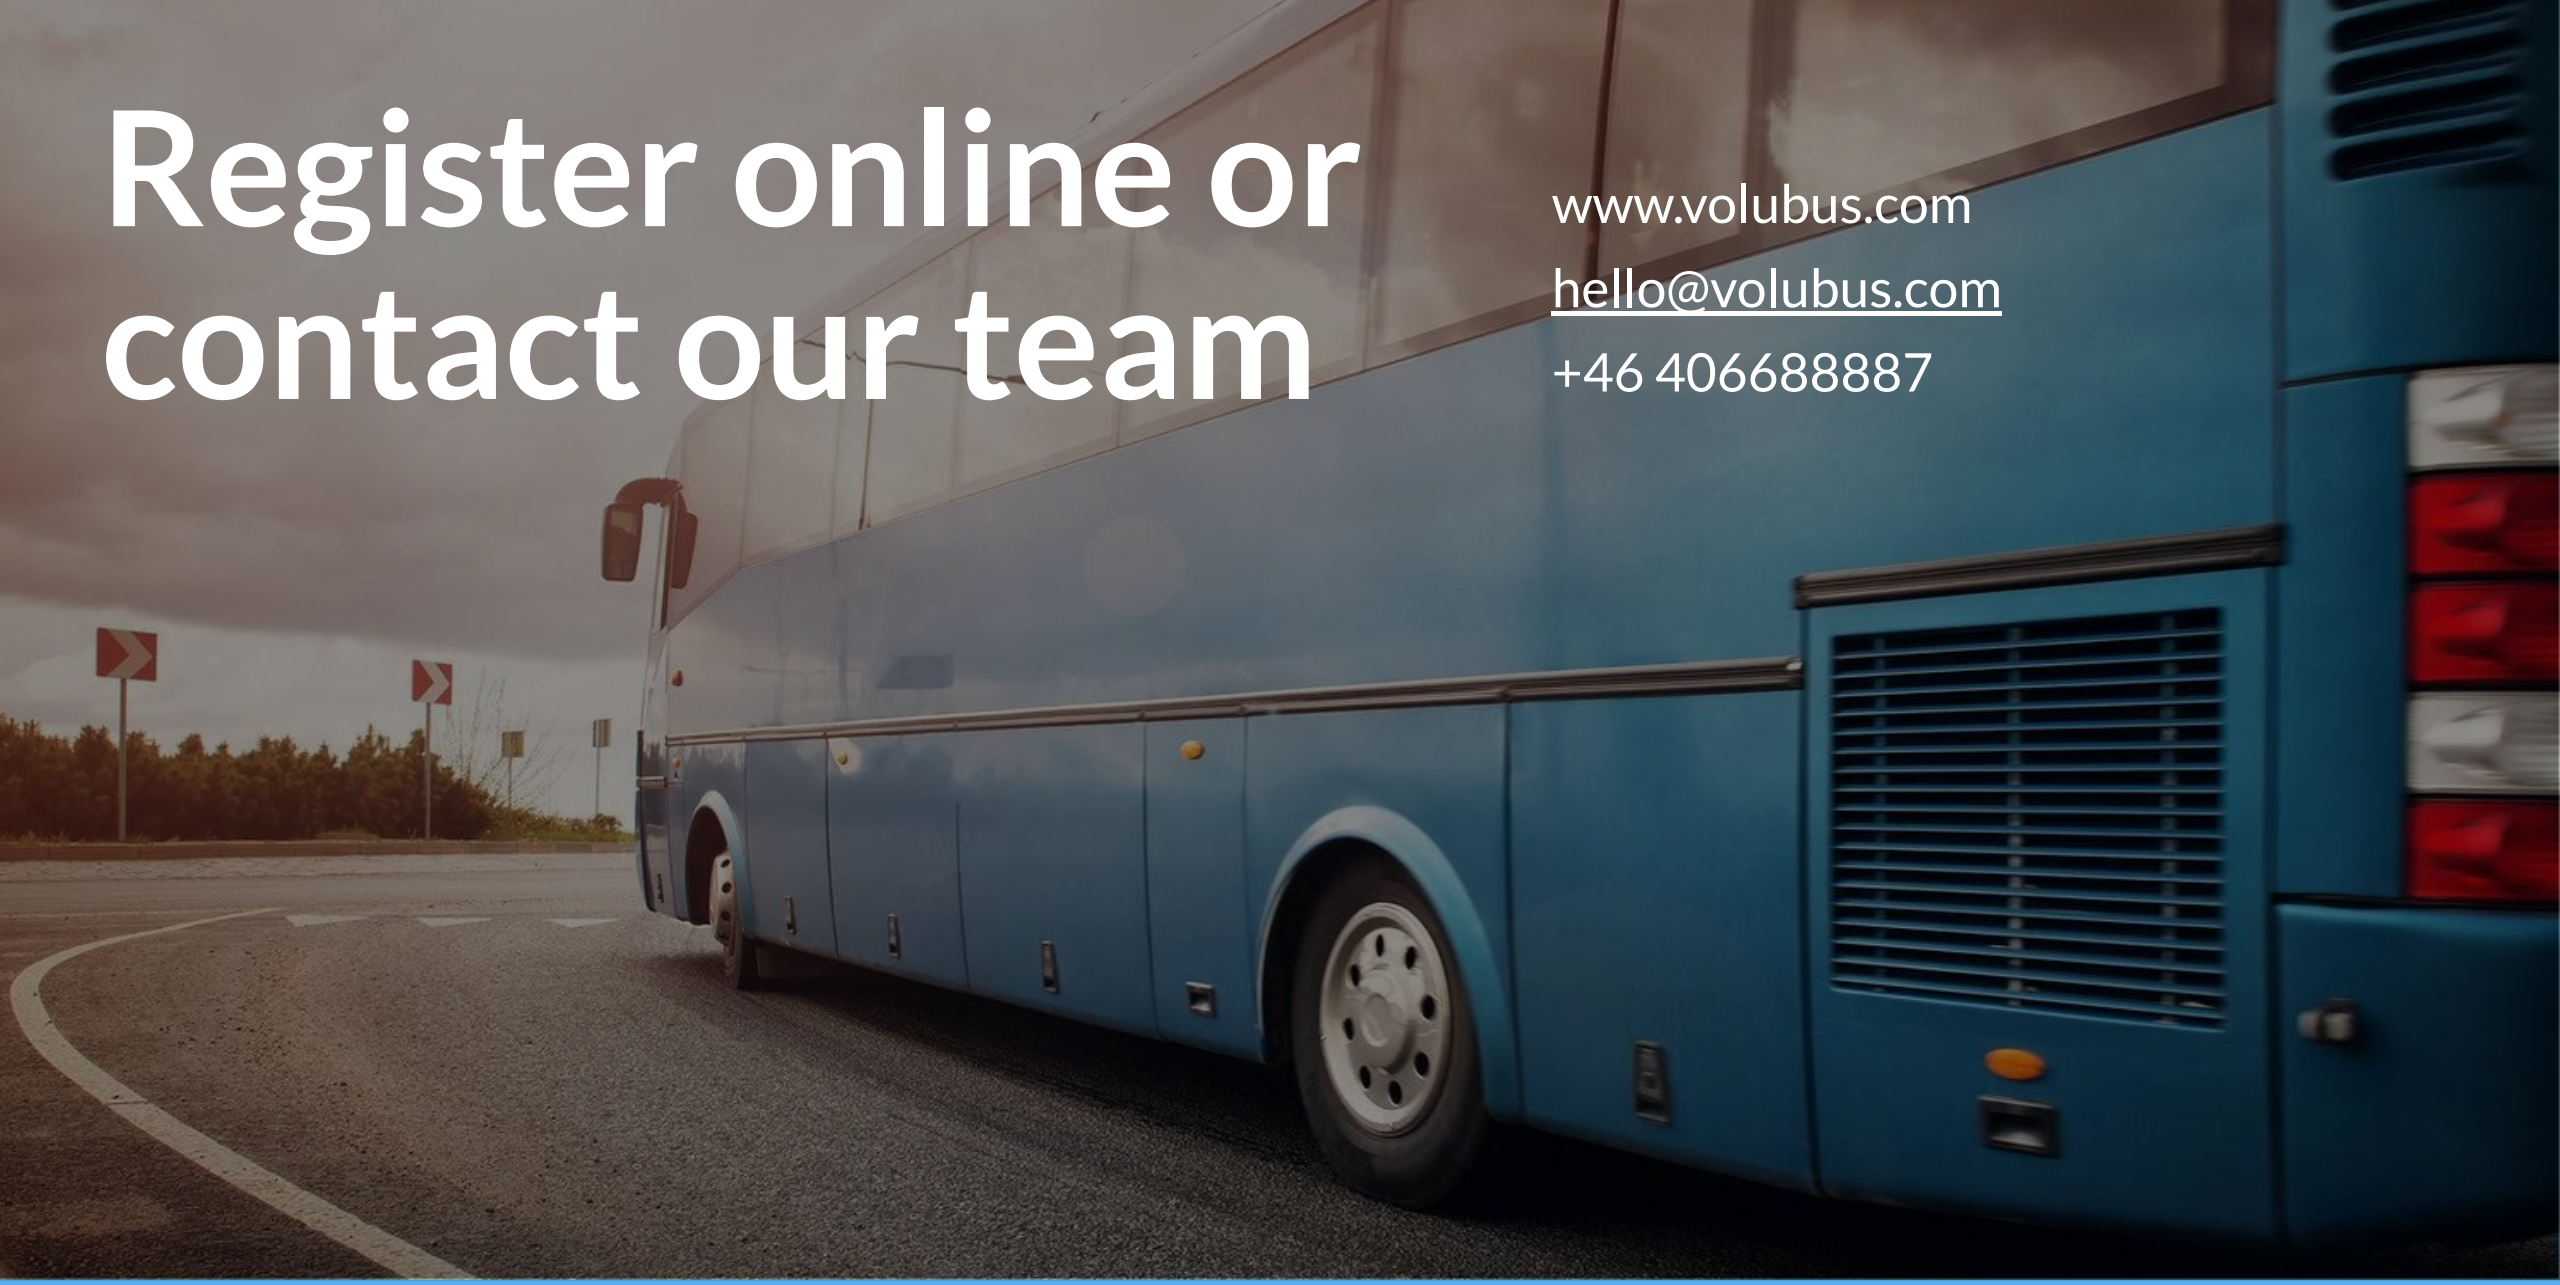

A wider market
All suppliers along the route are considered by the system, in the pricing logic.

Quality assured
All suppliers are checked by Volubus, meaning one quality assured price is provided to the client in seconds.
