Introduction

Evessio's process starts with the initial introduction to an account manager whose role is to ensure customer success at every stage of the journey, maintain ongoing communication and manage annual renewals.

Website build

Customers are also allocated a dedicated project manager who will work with you to create your event website and liaise on every aspect of your initial event set up.

Training

Training on the software is then provided by a dedicated training manager who begins the process with a training needs analysis and tailored training programme to suit your needs. This ensures you can confidently navigate your way around the platform and learn to use all Evessio's features to get the best value from the software.

Support

A team of support specialists are then on hand to deliver outstanding customer service on an ongoing basis.

What our customers say...

> For our European Plastics portfolio we selected the Evessio platform for our awards and exhibitions. We required a platform that provided great functionality along with design and build support, which Tom and his team expertly provided. Our events have seen impressive growth over the last few years since we changed to Evessio.

> We run a number of Awards for our publications and are constantly looking for ways to improve users' experience, drive revenues while managing our costs. We use Evessio across all of our events as it provides fantastic functionality for our end users, as well as features that have enabled us to save money and increase revenues.

> By using Evessio we were able to grow our first event with them by 30% from the previous year! This was achieved as Evessio provides the tools and insight to know where everyone is in the process from initial interest to completion of entries or bookings making it easy to manage and ensure no potential attendee, nominee or purchaser is missed. We now use them for all our events.

Revolutionize your events and unlock limitless potential.
