Hotel Castilla Termal Balneario de Solares ****

Located in an extensive park of century-old trees near Santander. The waters of this historic spa were declared of public use in the year 1828. It was converted into the first spa resort in Cantabria in the early 20th century, during the Belle Époque. It reopened its doors to the public in 2006, after having been fully refurbished, thereby regaining its splendour and maintaining its magnificent Classic style.

The hot springs, famous for their healing qualities, gave rise to a well-being, health and beauty centre.

The spa waters of the Fuencaliente spring contain bicarbonate, chlorine, calcium and sodium. They are therapeutically recommended for digestive, metabolic, anti-acid, anti-inflammatory, diuretic and nervous system treatments. These waters are also suitable for recreational, aesthetic, rehabilitation and psychological thermal treatments, and for disorders in relation to the nervous system, such as insomnia and stress.
