Corporate Social Responsibility

Corporate Social Responsibility is the continuing commitment by business to behave ethically and contribute to economic development while improving the quality of life of the workforce and their families as well as of the local community and society at large. Let's Go Travel's voluntary commitment to a high level of social responsibility is thefoundation of our CSR Principles. Our partner BCD Travel was very proud to become the first global travel management company to participate in the United Nations Global Compact in February 2008. In Uganda, we arecurrently involved in the following projects:

Ride for a Woman

The organization, Ride 4 A Woman was formed in 2009 in Buhoma area near Bwindi Impenetrable Forest to empower and support vulnerable women. The program started by renting bicycles to tourists with the hope of generating money to start a job-training program for the women. As time went on, there became a need for bike maintenance so a training for local women to do the repairs started. The program expanded beyond bicycle renting and mechanics when a group of Australian tourist offered to help start a sewing program. This led to the need of a community building for the programs to take place, which was completed in 2012 and is called the Bwindi Women's Community Centre. Today, Ride 4 A Woman strives to empower many local women by providing them with training in local crafts, textiles, bicycle repair and English instruction. We support the programme by buyingthe crafts made by the women and offering them to our clients as gifts when they take a safari with us.

A school currently cares for 160 orphans who are being taught Primary 1 through 7, as well as receiving personal care and counseling.
