#4. CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY

Preserve the environment

Environmental activities in Moldova aim to build environmental sustainability into each business function and process. These activities better protect Moldova by tree planting in designated areas, e.g. forest reserves, swamps, etc.

Missionary drive

Certain educational centers in Moldova need help. Main activities arise from their plight and plead for school furniture, computers, paper and writing materials. Lend a hand to help these missionary schools.

The Caring hands

Visit an orphanage or hospital in Moldova, support or help them with their daily needs, e.g. painting the premises, preparing the lunch, and generally assisting the staff.

Environmental clean up

Main goal is to clean up the waste in order to protect human health and the environment. These activities help to raise the awareness of the public regarding the importance of city cleanliness.

TEAM-BUILDING ACTIVITIES

If you're planning on giving your employees a team-building exercise to perform, it's important to understand the four different types of teambuilding. By understanding the goals you wish to gain from this team-building, it's easier to determine which type will have a better outcome.

Trust-Building

Helps foster an atmosphere of cooperation. A strong feeling of trust also can help to get tasks done more quickly and efficiently. It helps people to develop mutual respect, openness, understanding, and empathy, as well as helping to develop communication and teamwork skills.

Skills-Based

Team members participate in workshops where they learn and practice a specific skill set, such as dealing with conflict, reaching group consensus or giving and receiving constructive feedback. Skills-based team-building has proved to be a great success in boosting teams' performance levels.

Activity-Based

Used to provide teams with challenging tasks that usually take place in the outdoors. The experience of success in an outdoor challenge can be a great booster for the team's morale and productivity in the workplace. It may also be used to identify the strengths of staff or find potential leadership talent.

Problem Solving-Based

Helps the team solve certain problems given by an outside facilitator. The group will then need to identify the challenges and possible solutions while trying to work as effectively as possible. This team-building approach has great benefits in term of stress relief and positive emotions towards the work environment.
