River Safari

River Safari stands as Vietnam's largest river wildlife conservation park, housing over 50 species comprising nearly 530 animals. A visit to this sanctuary offers a glimpse into the four primary wildlife ecosystems, where you can encounter numerous endangered and rare species listed in the Red Book. Among these remarkable creatures are Bengal tigers, lions, horned antelopes, kangaroos, rhinos, and many others, some of which have sadly become extinct in the wild.

HA LONG

ISLAND PARADISE BY THE BAY

Halong Bay is renowned not just as a UNESCO World Heritage site but also as one of the globe's most celebrated natural marvels. When viewed from above, Halong Bay resembles an incredibly vivid and expansive ink wash painting. These remarkable and artistically sculpted natural formations transform thousands of otherwise tranquil and lifeless islands into impeccable sculptures and canvases, showcasing an endless array of captivating and enchanting shapes. These thousands of rocky islands, rising and falling within the dreamlike and glistening waves, possess a dynamic and majestic allure, yet they also exude a gentle, charming, and vivid quality that is both familiar and strangely mesmerizing to human observers.
