Meetings and Conferences

In order to generate great business opportunities or to enlarge specific education all over the world, we need to encourage meetings with the representatives of different companies, branches, nations or independent organizations to enable an exchange of knowledge and know-how. Here at Encuentro, we will be happy to organize your professional conference or scientific congress for you by consulting, planning, executing and supervising your event in all stages. Please feel free to pick one of our most requested congress venues in Mexico.

Incentives

In today's business world, we constantly aim at exceeding expectations and maximizing success. Employee incentive programs have become a popular tool of business management to increase the overall employee performance. As we think that people are the most important source of every company, we have developed specific programs that will enhance motivation, team building and collective effort and last but not least, contribute to your organizational success. In a study of the Center for Concept Development, the majority of the participants stated that travel is remembered longer than other incentive rewards. You can choose between the following incentive destinations: Mexico City and Cancun
