CS Events | Curiosities and useful hints

- Although Sorrento is not actually along the Amalfi Coast (as some of the towns like Positano, Amalfi, Ravello or Vietri sul Mare are), it is nowadays considered as part of it by default and one of the best hubs to explore the area; it is in fact reached by a regular service of boats and hydrofoils which connects it to Naples, Capri and the other small towns on the coast.

- There is no train service to travel along the Amalfi Coast; the only ways to travel along the coast are by bus, boat, or renting a car.

- A common misconception about the Amalfi Coast is that it is a beach (something we tend to equate with the word coast). The Amalfi Coast does in fact have some towns on the beach and waterfront, but it also includes towns up in high, rocky cliffs way above the beach.

- Amalfi was one of the first places in Europe to ever make paper

- Distances:
  - Naples International airport: 1hr from Sorrento, 1hr20 min from Positano or Amalfi
  - Capri : 20 min from Sorrento, 40 min from Positano or Amalfi
  - Pompei : 1 hr from Sorrento, 1 hr 20 min from Positano or Amalfi

  Do not be scared by the transfer time though: the scenery is so beautiful that time flies. Of course if budgets allow, we could also transfer guests by helicopters directly from the airport! What an arrival that would be…..

For more artisan vendors, limoncello shops and ceramics typical of the Amalfi Coast, take time to stroll through one of the smaller villages, such as Vietri sul Mare in Salerno.
