What is the Best Time to Visit Tanzania ? 🎾

The best time to visit Tanzania and Zanzibar is anytime outside the rainy season from March to early May. June to Early October is dry season and These are considered the best months for Safaris, the Great Migration, Mount Kilimanjaro & Meru Trekking, and Zanzibar Beach Holiday , These months are peak travel season. They will be busier, and some lodges, hotels, and parks will apply higher rates .

January and February also offer good options, outside peak season rates.

If you prefer a more secluded experience, consider visiting during the short rainy season from the end of October to December.

January , February and Early March also offer good options, outside peak season rates.

April and May is the low season for travel to Tanzania, as the heavy rains of the long rainy season set in. While travelers wanting to spot the Big Five on safari or lounge on a Tanzanian beach might want to choose a different month to travel, lovers of birds are in luck. April and May are the best months for birdwatching.